Religious Conference Features Dr. Marney

The week beginning on the 10th of February was "Religious Conference Week" here at Mary Washington College. Jane Sumner, a senior, was the chairman of the religious committee who organized the various meetings and seminars in which the entire student body was able to participate.

The main speaker was Dr. Carlyle Marney, a Baptist minister now residing in Charlotte, North Carolina. Further information about him may be obtained in the library where we now have a display of his books.

Dr. Marney selected the topic entitled "Preventationalism and Prejudice" to present at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday the 11th in Monroe Auditorium.

On Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon seminars were held at 4:00 p.m. in the ping pong room of Ann Carter Lee. On Tuesday, Dr. Marney's topic was entitled "The Padded Cell." Then on Wednesday, he discussed "Prejudice As Religion."

Both of these seminars were well attended. The students were able to participate in connection with these two topics. Everything took on an informal atmosphere with numerous people discussing the problems while enjoying a cup of coffee which was served to them during the seminars.

On Wednesday, the last night of "Religious Conference Week," Dr. Marney spoke on "Escape From Preventationalism." This meeting was held directly after the student body meeting, at 8:00 p.m. in Monroe Auditorium.

Throughout the two days the Race Relations Committee was on hand to evaluate the topics and the opinions of Dr. Marney. The committee was in full agreement: Dr. Marney was a stimulating speaker and presented some interesting views on the religious and racial matters of today.

Library Gives Notice On Books to Students

To Mary Washington College students from the Faculty Library Committee.

It has been apparent during the fall months that some urgently needed library books have been hidden or deliberately misplaced for selfish ends. Furthermore, pages have been mutilated and torn from books and periodicals that have been assigned reading for large classes.

No one should regret that acts of this kind are not only violations of the Honor Code, but of the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia as well (Code of Virginia, title 18, section 1, no. 177 defines it as a misdemeanor).

In addition, we emphasize that the spirit of the liberal arts college presumes the ability of its students to think and act maturely. A student is expected to guide her own intellectual development with foresight, avoiding, in moments of "panic," emotional acts.

To you few members of the student body who have forgotten this, we urge that you reevaluate your behavior in these instances and thus avoid such acts of petty vandalism in the future.

Dance Group Presents Version Of Joyce's Novel For Concert Series

The Jean Erdman Dance Theatre will present "The Coach With The Six In-Sides" in George Washington Auditorium on Monday, February 17, at 8:15 p.m.

"The Coach With The Six In-Sides," Miss Erdman's adaptation of James Joyce's novel, Finnegans Wake.

The company, which will represent the people and animals that come to life in the dreaming reverie of a Dublin tavern keeper, is the original cast seen in overseas and New York presentations. They include, in addition to Miss Erdman, Anita Dangler, Van Dexter, Leonard Frey, and Gay Rylan.

Leading the orchestra will be composer Teiji Ito, a native of Japan.

Reservations for the production may be made at the Information Booth from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., beginning, Monday, February 10.

A native of Hawaii, Jean Erdman went to Off-Broadway from a career in choreography and set design. The first Broadway showings of choreography were in festival seasons of the New Dance Group at New York Times Hall and The Manhattan Theatre.

Having developed her own school and concert company in New York City, Miss Erdman has produced her new works annually, has toured the United States extensively, and in 1955 was the first American artist-embassy to tour the Orient.

ter World War II. She has been artist-in-residence with her company for seven years at the University of British Columbia, and in the summer of 1962 was at the University of Hawaii. From 1961 to 1957, she was head of the dance department at Bard College.

Leading the orchestra will be composer Teiji Ito. The score requires 27 instruments for the 27 musicians. Some of the instruments are conventional flutes, fiddles, and accordions. Others are less conventional—schikuri (a double-reed Japanese court instrument), a thumb piano (a small box with steel prongs attached to the vibrators), an orlon (a recorder-like wind instrument), a steel drum from Trinidad, a slide whistle, and a marimbula.

Miss Erdman undertook to bring the novel to the stage after reading and rereading the book for years.

She approached her task first in choreographic terms. But then she found the language of Joyce "so marvelous, so crazy and so funny" that she decided to put as many of Joyce's words into the entertainment as possible. She emerged with a play that blends drama, dance, music, and mime.

In doing so she kept faith with Joyce. "Every line in the play is a line from the book," says Miss Erdman. "There is not a single utterance or even a sound in the play—which is not in the book."

I.C.A. Holds Open House

The Inter-Club Association sponsored a Little Open House on Tuesday evening, February 4. The open house lasted from 8:00 to 7:00 in Lounge of Ann Carter Lee. All of the clubs on campus were represented there. The purpose of this informal open house was to give the new freshmen and transfer students a chance to get acquainted with the clubs that are available on campus, and also to give these new students the opportunity to join the clubs in which they are interested.

The idea for having an open house was devised this year, and the ICA hopes to continue it in future years. There was a conflict in activities as the Little Open House took place at about the same time as the May Queen promenade. Ann McCullum, president of the ICA, hopes that next year there will be less conflict so that more people will be able to attend.

The Jean Erdman dance group performs an act in "The Coach With The Six In-Sides" to be seen on Monday in G.W. Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Statement of Policy

The Bulletin, as a publication of the students of Mary Washington College, has a responsibility to the school of which it is a product. Conversely, the student body also has a responsibility to the Bulletin.

Under its new editorship, the Bulletin will endeavor to carry out its responsibility to report news of interest, to engender college spirit, and to editorially interpret news. Because MWC is a state college, the news found in the Bulletin will be reported within the framework of 1) the public policies of the state, 2) traditions of the state and of the college, and 3) administrative policies of the college.

The Bulletin will assume the responsibility for interpreting news as the students dictate. It must be stressed, however, that as a student publication the Bulletin may not always present the majority opinion. For this reason the Bulletin staff expects opposition in the form of letters to the editor. A close exchange of ideas between the student body and the staff of the Bulletin is imperative.

The Bulletin encourages controversy and criticism from the student body. Lack of either will indicate a failure to the Bulletin staff. The channels of information between students and the publication are through direct conversation with the Bulletin staff or communication through the Bulletin box located in Ann Carter Lee.

In coverage of campus affairs, the Bulletin asks the cooperation of the students participating in them. This paper is willing to help carry through the campaign promises of the presidents of organizations who advocated more coverage in the Bulletin. The paper will attempt to give a thorough coverage of the news, but in order to insure thoroughness, clubs must bring news to the attention of the staff members.

The general framework of the paper will remain as set up in past years. Its news will not be stale and out-dated, but will be active and positive.

Only through cooperation and suggestion from the student body can the Bulletin become the paper the students want and need. It welcomes and encourages students and faculty criticism and suggestion.

Girls Give Opinions

With the approaching elections for major offices on campus, the Bulletin asked students at random for their opinions on matters pertinent at this time.

The Bulletin representative asked:

"Accepting the fact that all candidates for SGA and Honor Council presidents will possess the qualities of leadership and ability, what other specific factors do you anticipate will determine your vote in the final analysis? In other words, what are you looking for in a president?"

Natalie Tulloch, a senior, answered: "Leadership ability is reflected in many aspects of personality other than leadership experience per se. A knowledge of the intricacies of student government on this particular campus is certainly desirable, but such experience is of little value unless the candidate possesses the talent of interpreting the student attitude to faculty and administration, of envisioning the goals of the college during her term of office and delegating her authority to students who are best able to complete their particular job."

Junior student Barbara Sweeney replied: "I will look for stubbornness with a mixture of understanding of the needs and wants of the college community and the ability to weigh these accordingly. Also, I will look at not so much the string of activities in which the candidate has participated, but the services rendered."

Carolyn LeHew, a sophomore, asserted: "I think that a good president should seek out or be aware of new things to be done and additional improvements. She should at all times be 'model' for the rest of the student body."

Linda Cline, a junior, disclosed: "I would like to see someone as SGA president who could adequately and with dignity, grace, and poise represent the college. Coupled with leadership, these characteristics would constitute a good president."

A freshman, Nina Rebori said: "The quality one would generally look for in a candidate is courage. It is up to our leaders to find out the problems and somehow make this school more by and for the students. A certain amount of tradition makes the school very nice, but certainly some of our rules are traditionally outdated."

Page Proctor, a junior, asserted: "I am looking for a girl to dynamically represent the school as a kind of standard bearer. Too often the ineptile office workers fall short of this idealistic role. The fault lies with the voters, with the nature of the office, and with those who would be excellent standard bearers."

but who shun the office because of its nature."

Bonnie Dewey, a senior, replied: "They should be able to express their ideas and opinions in a clear and understandable manner, but equally important I think they should be open minded enough to listen and accept others' opinions and criticisms."

A junior, Betsy Hudgins, disclosed: "I am looking for the candidate who will uphold the traditional standards of personal dignity, honor, and intelligence."

Freshman student Joan McKenna said: "My vote would be determined by the sincerity of the candidates."

Ryan Stewart, a sophomore, replied: "My vote will be determined by the character of the candidate—what kind of person she is and how she has established herself, and also by the platform she presents."

What the candidate possesses the talent of interpreting the student attitude to faculty and administration, of envisioning the goals of the college during her term of office and delegating her authority to students who are best able to complete their particular job."

Junior student Barbara Sweeney replied: "I will look for stubbornness with a mixture of understanding of the needs and wants of the college community and the ability to weigh these accordingly. Also, I will look at not so much the string of activities in which the candidate has participated, but the services rendered."

College Shop Hours

The College Shop is now open only between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sundays. Previously the College Shop hours on Sunday were from 9 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

After two weeks of this new policy, irate and inconvenienced students have challenged the reality of such an administrative change in policy. An explanation of the reasons why this change was made makes the inevitability of the shortened hours apparent.

In their investigation of the Sunday income of the C Shop, the administration found that only 4 of the day's total income was gained in the morning hours. These results were tabulated from the record of the Sunday receipts from the past two years.

It is impractical to hire people to work when so little business takes place on Sunday mornings. The College Shop staff works on a morning and evening shift basis. Most of the staff works a six day week and justifiably asks for one more day off per week. With the hours on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 9:00 p.m., neither shift received a break. During the early morning hours and late evening hours, the employees had virtually no work to do.

With the shorter hours, one shift works the entire day on Sunday and does not have to work the next Sunday when the second shift works. In this manner those employees who usually work on Sunday mornings can attend church every other Sunday if they so desire.

The students who have been inconveniened are those who purchase coffee and doughnuts before going to church and those students who return to campus after 7 p.m. from the weekend's activities. Those students who do patronize the College Shop in the morning are a small percentage of the entire student body. It is impossible to receive any sizeable income from a hundred sales of 11c for one cup of coffee and a doughnut.

Those people returning from off campus weekends after the dining hall closes can make provisions to eat before leaving or to eat in Fredericksburg when they return to school.

The possibility does exist that students can arrange to work in the College Shop. Because of the low wage scale, however these jobs would not be appealing to any student except those who feel that under the present arrangement they are discriminated against. If the presently dissatisfied students worked in the College Shop they would be unable to attend church because of their job in the morning and would necessarily have to return to campus earlier on Sunday evenings because of their job. Thus they would be defeating the own purpose because they would have to adjust their plans anyway.

It seems, then, that the presently established hours of the College Shop are the most realistic. They benefit the employees who do work there, and are not inconvenient to a majority of the students because the dining hall is open in the morning as well as in the evening.

The Archaeology Society of Virginia will meet March 13 in the Science Building to investigate the possibility of organizing a local chapter and to hear State Archaeologist Howard MacCord present plans for a Spring "dig" in Germania.

Students Go to D.C.

Margaret Ross and Marjorie White, co-editors of the Bulletin, Judy Bailey, NSA Co-ordinator, and Ellen Duschek, SGA representative, attended the College Editors' Conference, February 3 in Washington, D. C. The conference was sponsored by the Overseas Press Club, USSNA, U. S. Student Press Association, and the Reader's Digest Foundation. College Editors from across the country and NSA co-ordinators and student body presidents from the Washington area attended the conference which was held at the State Department.

During the morning and afternoon sessions of the conference, the delegates attended a press conference with speakers Dean Rusik, Secretary of State; Averell Harriman, Undersecretary of State; Harold Cleveland and G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretaries; and Frank Coffin, Deputy Administrator for International Development.

After the conference, the delegates to the conference were taken to a White House reception, given in their honor by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson. During the entertainment provided at the White House, President Johnson, interrupted and spoke briefly to the group.

Seniors Celebrate 100 Night

For Seniors about to graduate anything is excuse enough for a party. What then, could be a better occasion for a celebration than the one-hundredth night before graduation?

The Senior class will hold their One-Hundredth night party Thursday, February 20 at 10:30 in the Anne Carter Lee ball room.

Entertainment will be provided by the seniors themselves. Groups from each of the mixed dorms will present skits.

The theme is "Happi Gras." The One-Hundredth Night parties, which have been held for a number of years at M.W.C., have become a tradition for Senior Classes.

Mrs. Reinburg Gives MWC Organ Recital

A Mary Washington College graduate returned to her alma mater this week to present an organ concert in the sixth offering of the College's 1963-64 Concert Series.

Peggy Kelley Reinburg, a 1958 graduate of the woman's division of the University of Virginia here and organist and director of music at the First English Lutheran Church in Richmond, performed Johann Sebastian Bach's great "Clavierbung, Part II" in George Washington Auditorium on Monday evening, February 10, at 8:15 p.m.

Mrs. Reinburg, who studied organ at Mary Washington under Mrs. Jean Slater Edson and undertook graduate study in organ and choral directing at the School of Sacred Music, Union Theological Seminary in New York City, is presently pursuing a master of music degree program in summer sessions at Northwestern University in Evanston. In addition to her graduate work, she has studied under Granville Munson, Jr., Richmond; Paul Callaway, Washington Cathedral; Gustav Leonhardt of Amsterdam, Holland; Robert Fountain, Oberlin Conservatory; Dr. George E. Luntz, Mary Washington College; and Richard Enright, Northwestern University.

A former director of music and organist at River Road Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Mrs. Reinburg appeared as recitalist in the 1963-64 series at Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg. She is a member of the Musicians Club of Richmond and has served as chairman of the Repertory Recital Series of the Richmond Chapter of the American Guild of Organists and chairman of the Guild's Richmond Organ Competition.

A former president of the Richmond Chapter of the Mary Washington College Alumnae Association, she is presently serving on the organization's Board of Directors.

Trio from Bluefield College performs during the Hootenanny sponsored by the senior class.

Seniors Gain Funds With Folk-Song Fest

Friday night, February 7, the senior class sponsored a "College Hoot" at 8:00 in George Washington Auditorium. The hootenanny was a class project to raise money for the senior gift to the College and for other class projects. The admission was 50 cents.

Judy Finger, as mistress of ceremonies, introduced the groups that represented RPI, Bluefield College, U. Va., Washington and Lee, and MCV. First on the program, were Jordan Smith and Rick Beiser from Washington and Lee. They were followed by a trio from Bluefield College which included Gus Brown, Sam Goodall, and Ray Satterfield. This group is known as the "Hermilage Trio".

The most unforgettable performance of the evening was presented by the "Stank's Branch String Consort," a quintet from Mary Washington's brother school, U. Va. Members of this group were: Bert McClure, Larry Hoffman, George Emery, and John Kerkan.

Two members of the group gave solo performances. Also from the University, James Kemper, an alumnus for the Law School, gave a solo performance.

The program ended with "The Trinitids," a folk-singing group from Richmond Professional Institute. They are Dick Workman, Don Workman, and Charlie Hall.

From audience reaction and attendance, the hootenanny should prove profitable to the senior class.

Placement Bureau Holds Career Night

Thursday, February 6 was the date of "Career Night" at MWC. Prominent speakers appeared at the Morgan Campus Science Hall at the 7:15 p.m. program.

Sponsored by both the Class of 1984 and the College's Placement Bureau, the program was designed primarily for seniors. However, members of the other classes also were encouraged to take advantage of the occasion and acquaint themselves with employment opportunities.

Six speakers talked briefly about their own fields and were then available for question. Informal discussions also were held in which all students were invited to attend and participate. Such fields as education, science, research, government, and business were topics for discussion.

The guest speakers included Mr. Ronald Moser, Head of the Information Education Department, Armed Forces Radiobiology Research Institute of the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Maryland; Dr. William Early, Director of Personnel, Montgomery County Public School, Rockville, Maryland; Mr. Howard A. Wilson of the Smith, Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia; Miss Bernadine Schuck, Vocational Counselor of the Berkeley School in New York City; Mr. Ben Ames, Personnel Director of Thallimer's Department Stores in Virginia and North Carolina; and Mr. Eugene Delgado-Aries.

from the Department of State in Washington who recently returned from Brazil where he served as Consul-General.

Arrangements for the speakers were made by Miss Joann Corda of the Placement Bureau.

Senior, Mary Anne Monaco from Alexandria worked with the Placement Bureau from the planning stages and conducted the program Thursday night.

This was the first year the Career Night program has been carried out so elaborately.

Visitors Grant Profs Leave

Leaves of absence for three Mary Washington professors were approved by the Board of Visitors, Saturday, February 8th.

Mr. Norman Wisner and Mr. Ray Merchant will both be working on dissertations during their year's leave beginning this summer. Mr. Dan Woodward will take his post-doctoral leave in England.

Other discussion at the Board meeting concerned the general welfare to the college, including the curricula, the budget and Chancellor Simpson's trip to India. More specific personnel matters will be taken up at the April meeting.

Raphael Demos, Emeritus Professor of Philosophy, from Harvard University will speak on February 19, at 4:00 p.m. in George Washington Auditorium on "Plato's Theory of Language". Mr. Demos will be speaking under the visiting scholar's program.

Judge Bryan Retires As University Rector

Judge Albert V. Bryan, after four years as Rector of the University of Virginia, will retire on February 29th. His last active duty was the meeting held at Mary Washington during the first weekend of February. At this time he headed the MWC committee and presided at the Board of Visitors meeting.

Before serving as Rector, Judge Bryan was a member of the Board for four years. His retirement marks the end of a maximum 8-year term of office. An alumnus of the University of Virginia, Judge Bryan attended graduate school there, where he earned his LL.D. Judge Bryan's present position as Federal Court Judge for the fourth district is preceded by a distinguished legal career. Born in Alexandria, he served as the City Attorney and later as the Commonwealth Attorney. He has also been a member of both the State Board of Corrections and the Board of Law Examiners.

Actually, not many people know exactly the function of the Board of Visitors. Judge Bryan, in an enthusiastic response to questions, explained that the purpose of the Board is primarily advisory. Therefore, it is in the background where approved administrative decisions are concerned. The Board meets five times a year for consultation with various committees concerning such matters as budgets and new buildings.

Judge Bryan was an eager recipient of questions not relevant to the Board, too. When asked his opinion of the proposed law to limit out-of-staters attending Virginia, Judge Bryan replied: "I think it would be a mistake to restrict the influx of college students from other states. This intake, in addition to the outflow of Virginia students to other states, represents an inter-state cultural exchange, and is a definite advantage to the Virginia educational system."

Asked about the proposed GSA Law which would ban controversial speakers from addressing state-supported schools, Judge Bryan asserted that this should be a school administrative matter. He felt that the final decision of whom and what is suitable for a particular college could best be decided by that individual school, as opposed to an across-the-board ban.

Opinions

Barbara Sweeney said: "SGA this past semester has exhibited a zest to change, and whether or not they have succeeded remains to be seen. They should be commended for their re-evaluation of out-moded regulations, and their great interest in student opinion."

Nina Rebori stated: "There must be a better system for letting freshmen and new students know their leaders and exactly what their leaders are really doing. It is extremely difficult for a freshman (and the freshman class usually has the most votes) to cast an intelligent ballot when she has only heard a few speeches and might possibly know what the candidates look like. The student government seems to be a small, select group of girls, so far removed that each student can hardly feel a part of it. Maybe as I get older and reach the age and class of the main governing body, my views will change, but for the moment they stand as stated."

Page Proctor maintained: "The programs of SGA were satisfactory in governing the school. This year, as last year, they seem to represent a half-hearted willingness to change with the times and the students. However, student government overemphasizes its importance. In an intellectual institution SGA should merely insure the freedom of students to pursue their purposes within the limits of reason."

Betsy Hudgins said: "I feel that the Student Government would be more effective if the purposes as stated in the Constitution were to be brought to the individual instead of being left with specific groups."

Linda Todd, a freshman, stated: "The two programs of Student Government which I liked most were the ASK program and the panel discussion on the drinking problem. I would like to see the ASK program continued next year. I enjoyed the meetings I attended because they were informal and informative."

Students also had some comments to make about Honor Council:

Barbara Sweeney asserted: "Honor Council has remained overly static, and although I am in almost complete agreement with their views, I feel that public opinion should have at least influenced their stand concerning the 'three word' clause and the orientation of new students."

Susan Lohr commented: "I have been very satisfied with the program of Honor Council in the past year—especially with regard to initiating a new means of selecting Honor Council members."

Joan McKenna had a very interesting comment in the form of a suggestion to my organization, possible YWCA: "In many hall discussions we have talked about how nice it would be to have some type of religious service which would enable students of all religions to worship together. Since we don't have a chapel, an occasional inter-denominational service would certainly be appreciated."

Chancellor Grellet Simpson wishes Judge Albert Bryan well following completion of his term as Rector of the Board of Visitors.

Book Collection Contest Announced by Bookstore

Now is the time for all bibliophiles to take stock of their libraries and plan to compete for the $50.00 award in the MWC Annual Book Collector's Contest.

The contest, sponsored by the Trade Book Department of the college, is open to all students. The student who, in the opinion of the judges, has assembled the best collection of books in relation to her major interests will receive $50.00. The second prize is $25.00 in trade books from the College Bookstore.

The winner of the contest (if a senior) or the outstanding senior collector will be the MWC nominee for the Amy Loveman National Award of $1,000. Each collection will be judged on its values as to the following things: a practical working library in relation to the major interests of the student, a nucleus for a permanent library, an indication of discriminating judgment in collecting books. Entry blanks may be filled out and deposited in a box in the Book Store after February 20. Rules and conditions for the contest will be posted throughout the campus.

Club Brings School Fashions of Orient

"Enter the Elegant East" was the theme of a far eastern fashion show sponsored by the Oriental Club yesterday.

The show which took place at 8:00 p.m. in Ann Carter Lee featured models from over 30 embassies in Washington. Mary Washington students including Fran Zuzolo, Pam Ames, and Margaret Copley also modeled. Janet Hu, 1962 graduate of MWC joined the other girls on their fashion promenade.

Indian and Indonesian music supplied a background to the fashion show. Members of the Gamelan Orchestra and instrumentalists from the India Embassy joined talents to create the mood of the far east. Dances representative of various countries and an exhibit of paintings by Oriental students also highlighted the evening. Oriental art objects ranging in price from 25 cents were supplied by the embassies and were sold at the show.

Penny Outten, president of the club was the fashion commentator. She described the content of each model as well as the design and description of her dress.

Mrs. U. Alexis Johnson, wife of the undersecretary of state for political affairs was present at the show and acted as a coordinator for the fashions and what was said about them. Dr. and Mrs. Kurt F. Leidecker invited the representatives from each of the embassies as well as members of the oriental club to their home for dinner preceding the fashion show. Proceeds from the show will be used for helping foreign students rehabilitate their countries which have been damaged by nature and by war.

Refreshments were served after the program.

Roles Cast InSpringPlay

"The Children's Hour," written by Lillian Hellman, has been chosen as the spring play for this year. Mrs. Shirley Cadle, professor of dramatic arts and speech, completed the casting February 7.

Susan Brown, a freshman, has been cast in the lead as a school teacher who is ruined by the slanderous rumor started by one of her students at a boarding school. The part of the student will be played by Betty Lewis Chambers, a senior day student.

The rumors also ruin another teachers who will be portrayed by Alice Funkhouser. Mr. Harry Helman from Fredericksburg will play the part of Miss Brown's fiance.

Director and Eleanor Caldwell is stage manager. The scenery will be directed by Diana Hamilton and the lights by Becky Tebbis. Props will be managed by Meade Andrews.

Also holding parts in the play are Marilyn Ann Heritt, Lang Scruggs, Vera Wilson, Jeanette Tate, Sue Rowe, Nancy Shackelford, Beth Moses, Jane Hernandez, Camella Ware, and Susan Salran.

The theme of the play is developed as the original lie told by the student, Mary Tillyord, at the school teachers Karen Wright and Martha Dobie, expands until the lives of several people are ruined by the slander.

The play is to be presented March 12, 13, and 14 in the duPont theater. The public is invited.

Physiologist Visits MWC

Dedication to the study of an interesting characteristic of Dr. Ingrid Deyrup, professor of zoology at Barnard College in New York.

Dr. Deyrup was the guest of the college on February 6 and when she spoke with biology and anatomy and physiology students on "Research and Graduate Study in Physiology" and the "Physiological Problems of Active Transport."

Student Body Passes New Honor Council Proposal

The following proposal was presented to the student body by the Honor Committee, consisting of Alice Andrews, president, Carolyn Hawker, Judy Sutherland, Patricia Johnson, and Laurie Newman. It was passed on February 12 with 1067 affirmative votes and 45 negative votes.

PROPOSAL:
We the members of the 1963-1964 Honor Committee do hereby propose the following change in the election of the members of the Honor Committee. Where as the Honor Committee has heretofore consisted of representatives of the four classes, we believe the election of class representatives to the Honor Committee would strengthen the functioning of the Honor System.

ELECTION PROCEDURE:
Each class will elect one representative to the Honor Committee. The nominations for both class president and Honor Committee Representative will be presented on the same election ballot. There will be no change in the present method of electing the Honor Committee President. As stated in the Honor Code: "At a trial, the house president of the dormitory in which the accused resides, or in case of a day student the Day Students Representative to the Student Government Association shall still constitute the sixth member of the committee."

Until the Freshman Class representative to the Honor Committee is elected, the president of the Senior Class shall serve in her place. In case of absence of any member of this committee, the class president shall act in her place. In the event that the class president is absent, the next highest ranking officer in the class shall serve the duties of treasurer and historian.

DUTIES OF THE HONOR COMMITTEE REPRESENTATIVE:
1. To try cases involving a suspected violation of the Honor Code.
2. To work constructively toward better education of the Student Body in matters of honor. Because the Honor Committee Representative will not be encumbered with the many responsibilities of the class president, the Representative can concentrate her efforts on improving and strengthening the educational program on the campus.

String Group Gives Concert

The Mary Washington College String Ensemble and the Department of Music presented a concert Wednesday, February 5, at 8:15 p.m. in duPont Little Theatre.

Entitled "An Evening of Chamber Music," the program was directed by Mr. Lloyd Farrer, assistant professor of music, and was offered free of charge to the public.

Mr. Farrer, trombonist and director of the College Band, and Mr. Richard D. Seidler, bassoonist and instructor in music, joined the Ensemble which was composed of twelve students. Mrs. Lloyd Farrer, pianist, also appeared with the group.

The first half of the program featured "Sonata No. 19 in D Major," a 5th by Johann Rosenmuller and "Concerto in A Minor, for Bassoon, Strings, and Cembalo (F. VIII, No. 2)" by Antonio Vivaldi.

The second half was a memorial tribute to Paul Hindemith.

German composer, who died in December, 1963. Selections included "Music of Mourning" and "Sonata for Bassoon and Piano" by Mr. Hindemith and "Divertimento for Trumpet, Trombone, and Piano" by Boris Blacher.

Art Group Travels

On February 5, two groups representing the Art Department of Mary Washington College visited the Winterthur Museum in Winterthur, Delaware. The two groups, the American Art class and the Decorative Arts of the Eighteenth Century Seminar, were accompanied by Mr. Herban, Miss King, Dr. and Mrs. Alvey, and Miss Moran.

The Winterthur Museum includes about one hundred rooms which typify the architecture of the years 1650 to 1800. The various period rooms not only show the visitors to the museum and the way early Americans lived, but also show their heritage in architecture and decorative arts. The rooms, which are furnished with craftsmanship, are arranged as they might have existed in homes of that time. Of special interest to the Mary Washington group were the original paintings by John Singleton Copley and Benjamin West.

With the purpose of promoting an appreciation of American craftsmanship, the Winterthur Museum offers a very competitive fellowship to ten students each year.

Results Revealed

Gracia Malami, who tabulated the ICA poll on the point system, has revealed the poll results.

After examining the questionnaires, ICA felt that the point system should be changed from four to six points. Several reasons for the change are that many jobs on campus did not receive adequate points for the amount of work done while other duties received too many points in ratio to the required work, and some students were holding double offices resulting in limitations of opportunities to serve.

By raising the point system, ICA feels that more people will be able to hold office. The new point system will go into effect with the spring elections. More detailed information, such as newly assigning duties to various offices, may be obtained from members of ICA council.
